Mission

To promote education and professional training that address the negative consequences of the digital divide while supporting access to quality training for all. In particular, we aim at supporting students from disadvantaged backgrounds (whether by social origin or geographic location: rural areas) in Sub-Saharan Africa.

Objectives

- To create a multidisciplinary higher institute of education and remote professional training.
- To provide training related to university pedagogy and remote learning for teaching team.
- To offer didactic means and computer equipment to the students.
- To offer scholarships to students from disadvantaged backgrounds.

Projects in Africa to be funded

Project 1: To create a multidisciplinary postsecondary institute of remote learning

- 1.1 To acquire land and build the institute's headquarters
- 1.2 To equip and fit out the offices and meeting rooms
- 1.3 To approach ministerial institutions for the recognition of the institute
- 1.4 To design a web site integrating a platform for distance learning
- 1.5 To train teachers in digital pedagogy
- 1.6 To create television and radio programs to make training content accessible to students living in rural areas
- 1.7 To establish partnerships with institutions or organizations that offer remote education so as to share certain resources

Project 2: To provide didactic means and computer equipment for the students

- 2.1 To provide computers for the students from disadvantaged backgrounds
- 2.2 To design course materials and textbooks available in different formats (digital, paper)

Project 3: Provide scholarships

- 3.1 To offer scholarships to students from disadvantaged backgrounds
- 3.2 To train the next generation of researchers by offering doctoral scholarships in fields deemed relevant to the sustainability of the institute's activities
- 3.3 To offer scholarships for high achieving bachelors from disadvantaged backgrounds to cover the cost of registration at the virtual university in programs not covered by our institut
